

CONTRIBUTORS

Themis Anthrakidis is a PhD candidate at the University of Macedonia, Thessaloniki, Greece. He received a Master's degree in Economics from the University of Amsterdam, the Netherlands, a Bachelor's degree in Economics from the University of Macedonia in Thessaloniki and a Bachelor's degree in Laws from the Democritus University of Thrace, Greece. He currently works as a special adviser in the field of public economics. His main research interests are in Political Economy, Comparative Political Economy, Economic and Financial Crises.

Nikos Astroulakis holds a Ph.D. in Economics from the University of Crete. His position is based in the Tax and Customs Academy of the Independent Authority for Public Revenue. He also is a member of the collaborative academic staff in the Hellenic Open University. Nikos' main research interests are in Political Economy and Development Ethics. In his publications are included numerous book chapters and refereed journal articles. Part of his research has been awarded by Emerald with the "Highly Commended Award Winner for Excellence 2012" and with the honorable mention "Maestro Jesús Silva Herzog, Versión 2014" by the Instituto de Investigaciones Económicas Universidad Nacional Autónoma de México.

Stelios Hadjisavvas is an adjunct faculty at the University of Nicosia (UNIC), Cyprus. His PhD research, at UNIC, examines shoulder injuries in handball players. He holds two MSc degrees, one in MSc in Musculoskeletal Physiotherapy (Manual Therapy) from UNIC and one in in Sports Physiotherapy from European University, Cyprus. He also received a Certificate in acupuncture from University of West Attica, Greece. His research interest include pain, fatigue and quality of life.

Anthi Kellari is a PhD candidate and laboratory collaborator at the Department of Physiotherapy, University of Thessaly, Greece. She studied BSc in Physiotherapy and awarded a Master of Science degree (MSc) in Advanced Physiotherapy, at the Technological Educational Institute of Central Greece. Her postgraduate education and her scientific interests include kinetic and kinematic analysis of human movement and geriatric rehabilitation.

Giorgos Kentas (PhD Vrije Universiteit Brussel, 2009) is Associate Professor (tenured) of International Politics and Governance at the University of Nicosia and Director of a Graduate Program in Public Administration. His research interests focus on strategic governance, strategic management, European governance and politics, theories of politics and governance, conflict management. He published in peer-reviewed journals and written and/or co-authored a number of books. Currently, he works on a book on strategic management.

Theodoros Kontakos is an experienced lawyer practicing since 2017 at A.& E. C. Aimilianides, C. Katsaros & Associates LLC, specialising in criminal law, and has worked on various criminal, civil, administrative, immigration, ecclesiastical and real estate law cases. He provides legal representation and consultancy services, including work for ecclesiastical and bank institutions. He holds an LLB from the University of Nicosia (2017), a Master's in Educational Management from the University of the Aegean (2012) and a BA in Preschool Education (2010) also from the University of the Aegean. Additionally, he is certified in Data Protection (2020) and has attended multiple legal conferences on criminal law, international law, and legislative studies. He is fluent in Greek and English.

Maria Kouvarou holds a PhD in Music from Durham University. She published papers in Popular Music, Popular Music and Society, Historia Critica, etc. She recently completed the research programme 'MU.DI.RE' (funded by A.G. Leventis foundation), at the Department of Social and Political Sciences, University of Cyprus, where she is also an adjunct lecturer.

Christina Michailidou is the program coordinator of Physiotherapy at the University of Nicosia, Cyprus. She received her Masters and PhD degree from Brunel University and she held a post-doc position at UCL, London, UK. She is a specialist in Graded Exercise Therapy for Chronic Fatigue and has worked for years at King's College Health Partners and Royal Free Hospital, London, UK. Her interests include chronic fatigue, Long-Covid, burnout, chronic pain, quality of life and rehabilitation.

Anastasia Papamichael is a Partner at A & E. C. Emilianides, C. Katsaros & Associates LLC, one of the most prestigious law firms in Cyprus. She leads the firm's Public, Property and Criminal Law sectors and is also an active member of the Regulatory Law sector. Anastasia has broad experience in litigation before all Cypriot courts, as well as international courts. Regarding her academic background, Anastasia studied Law at Middlesex University and holds an MSc in Development and Security from the University of Bristol. She is currently a member of the Adjunct Faculty at the University of Nicosia, Law Department, and has previously served as an assistant lecturer in inheritance and property law for the Cyprus Bar Association's training program for trainee lawyers.

Giovanni Parente is a PhD graduate in History from Maynooth University and is a Research Ireland's "Government of Ireland" scholar. His doctoral thesis is supervised by Professor Ian Speller and is titled "The European Union at Sea: A Historical and Geopolitical Analysis of EU Maritime Operations and Their Impact on Maritime Governance and Security, 2008-2024". His primary research areas include maritime security, strategic studies, defence studies, and the European Union's security and defence policy, on which he has lectured for the Irish Naval Service, Irish Military College, Maynooth University, the Armed Forces of Malta and the Irish Department of Defence. Giovanni studied public policy in the Netherlands, international relations in the United Kingdom, and economics in Italy.

Theoharis Stavrides is an Associate Professor in the Department of Turkish and Middle Eastern Studies of the University of Cyprus. He holds a BA in History from Amherst College and an MA and a PhD in History from Harvard University. His research interests focus mainly on the study of the history of the early Ottoman Empire and the history of Cyprus during the Ottoman period.

Irene-Chrysovalanto Themistocleous works at the Physiotherapy program of the University of Nicosia (UNIC), Cyprus. She received her PhD from UNIC, her MSc in Cardiovascular Health and Rehabilitation from University of Chester, United Kingdom and her BSc from the European University Cyprus, Cyprus. Her interests include Cardiovascular rehabilitation, Pulmonary rehabilitation, Exercise and clinical population and Quality of Life.

Stylianos Vrakas is an undergraduate student in Primary Education at the University of Cyprus. His research interests include International & Comparative Education, Education Policy & Law, Curriculum Studies, Sociology & Philosophy of Education, History of Education, and Inclusive Education, with an emphasis on educational policy, social justice, and legal frameworks in education. He has participated in academic conferences and seminars on education and governance. Additionally, he is actively engaged in youth leadership and civic participation projects. He has gained research and project experience working with NGOs, contributing to policy-oriented educational initiatives.