

CONTRIBUTORS

Angeli Maria, Researcher and Project Coordinator at the Mediterranean Institute of Gender Studies (MIGS), University of Nicosia. Her research interests include gender in the contexts of media, education, politics, and migration. She has served as National Expert for the European Commission's Mutual Learning Programme on gender equality, the European Institute for Gender Equality, and the International Leave Policies Network.

Antreou Magdalene, Historian – Researcher with a PhD in Political Science and History and an MSc in Ottoman studies from the Panteion University of Social and Political Sciences. She specialises in the archival research of Cyprus history during the late nineteenth-early twentieth century. Her research interests include Cyprus' history, economy, society and politics. Dr Antreou's latest research is focusing on Cypriot women's investment activities.

Christou George, Professor of European Politics and Security at the Department of Politics and International Studies of the University of Warwick. He has published widely on European Politics and Security and participated in a number of EU, NATO-ACT and UK-funded security-related projects over the past fifteen years. He is currently the academic coordinator/Warwick lead on an ERASMUS+ Jean Monnet Network on European Cyberdiplomacy, funded by the European Commission.

Christou Odysseas, Assistant Professor in Government, International Law, and International Relations, School of Law, University of Nicosia. He is a member of the Cyprus Energy Strategy Council appointed by the President of the Republic of Cyprus, the International Studies Association, the Standing Group on International Relations and the Standing Group on Political Violence of the European Consortium of Political Research.

Cleridou Christiana, Adjunct Lecturer, Department of Law, University of Cyprus. She holds an LLB, an LLM in International Law, and a PhD from the University of Bristol. She also holds an MA with Distinction in European law from King's College London. Dr Cleridou has extensive experience in teaching and practicing law in Cyprus and the UK. She currently teaches Gender and the Law. She is a gender equality expert and has presented her work in numerous international conferences. Her research interests also include human rights, democratic theories, European and international law, Cypriot law, and labour law.

Emilianides Achilles C., Dean, Professor, School of Law of the University of Nicosia. Dean Emilianides is a Founding Member and the First Secretary-General of the Cyprus Academy of Sciences, Letters and Arts, Member of the European Academy of Sciences and Arts and practising advocate. His major recent publications include: Civil Procedure in Cyprus (2019), Constitutional Law in Cyprus (2nd edn. 2019), Religion and Law in Cyprus (3rd edn., 2019), Family and Succession Law in Cyprus (2nd edn., 2019), Labour Law in Cyprus (2nd edn., 2019), Media Law in Cyprus (2nd edn., 2019), Public Administration after the Crisis (ed., 2019), Law and Literature (ed. 2019).

Giokaris Ioannis P., Adjunct Lecturer, School of Law, University of Nicosia. He teaches Commercial Law I (in English), Commercial Law II (in English), European Competition Law (in English), Company Law I (in English), Company Law II (in English), Commercial law and Negotiable Instruments (in Greek), Law of Torts (in Greek) and Insolvency Law (in Greek). Additionally, he is an instructor in Business Law at Global Training in Limassol. His fields of interest include Law of Contracts, Company Law, Competition Law, Law of Taxation, Media and Communication.

Hadjigeorgiou Andreas, PhD candidate in Law – Philosophy, University of Antwerp – University of Groningen. He is a lawyer and researcher with a multi-disciplinary perspective. He holds an LLM in Legal Theory from the University of Vienna, an LLB in Law with International Studies from the University of Surrey. He has also been an affiliated academic staff at the University of Glasgow and a research fellow at the University of Utrecht.

Hajisoteriou Christina, Assistant Professor of Intercultural Education at the University of Nicosia in Cyprus. She received her PhD in Education concentrating in the field of Intercultural Education also from the University of Cambridge. In 2012, she completed her post-doctoral research focusing on ‘The Europeanisation of intercultural education: Politics, Policy-making and challenges – The case of Cyprus’. She has been pursuing and maintaining an interdisciplinary active research agenda in the field of Intercultural Education.

Ioannou Christos, Adjunct Lecturer, School of Business, University of Nicosia. He holds a BA (Hons) in International Accounting and a Master in Business Administration (Finance). Furthermore, he holds the professional qualifications of Certified Management Accountant, Chartered Manager, and Certified Financial Consultant.

Lois Petros, Head of Department, Professor, School of Business, Department of Accounting of Accounting, University of Nicosia. He holds an MSc degree in Accounting from De Montfort University, and a PhD degree in Marine Technology from Liverpool John Moores University. He is a Certified Management Accountant (CMA) and he holds the Chair of PwC in Business Research at the University of Nicosia. He is a member of the Institute of Certified Management Accountants of Australia (ICMA), the Institute of Marine Engineers, Science and Technology (IMarEST, UK), and the National Bookkeepers Association (NBA, USA). He is a member of the Board of Directors of the Cyprus Port Authority (CPA). His research work has been published in international conference proceedings, books and journals.

Makrygiannakis Georgios, Assistant Professor, General Department, National and Kapodistrian University of Athens. He holds a PhD from the University of Portsmouth and an MA in Management of Tourist Enterprises from the Hellenic Open University. His research interests focus on organisational control theory, accounting and organisational change, and sociological approaches in accounting research.

Petrikkos Petros, PhD candidate, Department of Politics and Governance, School of Law, University of Nicosia. He is a Research Associate at the Diplomatic Academy of the University of Nicosia, and a political, defence, and foreign policy analyst and researcher. He also serves as a Managing and Reviews Editor at the Studies in Ethnicity and Nationalism Journal at ASEN. He holds an MSc in Conflict Studies from the London School of Economics and Political Science and a BA in International Relations from Queen Mary, University of London.

Photiou Maria, Research Fellow at the University of Derby. She completed her PhD in Art History at Loughborough University. She has published contributions that explore issues of migration, gender, culture, conflict, memory, identity, and belonging. She is currently preparing a new book on art, migration, and belonging.

Pouliasi Maria Eleni, Lecturer, Jindal Global Law School, O.P. Jindal Global University. She teaches Law of Taxation I (in English), Law of Taxation II (in English), Transfer Pricing and the Impact of BEPS (in English). She completed her undergraduate studies in National and Kapodistrian University of Athens, in 2017. She continued her studies at a postgraduate level at the University of Cambridge, obtaining a commercial law specialization. Her fields of interest are International Commercial Tax, Taxation Law, Intellectual Property Law, Competition Law and Maritime Law.

Soukara Stavroula, Associate Professor of Forensic Psychology, Department of Social Sciences, School of Humanities and Social Sciences, University of Nicosia. She is the Coordinator of the MSc/PhD in Criminology programme. Dr Soukara serves as an external advisor to the Cyprus Committee on Missing Persons. She has been appointed as a member to the Council of Crime Prevention and Civil Protection Centre at the Ministry of Justice and Public Order in Cyprus, and included as an expert on the list of CEPOL's database. She has a BA (Hons) in Psychology from Sussex University, an MSc in Criminal Justice Studies, a PGDip in Psychological Research Methods, and PhD in Forensic Psychology from Portsmouth University.

Stavri Michalis, PhD candidate, Department of History and Archeology, University of Cyprus. He holds a BA and an MA in History. His research interests focuses on the modern history of Cyprus (late nineteenth – early twentieth century), with a particular interest in cultural and intellectual history, national identity, and irredentism.

Zachariades Alexandros, PhD candidate, International Relations Department, London School of Economics. He is an Onassis Foundation Scholar. He holds a BA in History and Politics from the University of Exeter and an MSc in International Relations Theory from the London School of Economics. His research focuses on the Foreign Policy of Greece and Cyprus in the Middle East, with a particular interest in the Eastern Mediterranean and the Persian Gulf. His work also explores the interconnection between Neoclassical Realism and small powers.

Zackheos Marilena, Assistant Professor, Department of Social Sciences, School of Humanities and Social Sciences, University of Nicosia. She has published on postcolonial literary and cultural studies, psychoanalysis and trauma, gender and sexuality. She is co-editor of Vile Women: Female Evil in Fact, Fiction, and Mythology (2014), From Cyprus With Love (2016) and Education in a Multicultural Cyprus (2017).