

CONTRIBUTORS

Alexis Alecou, PhD in Political Science and History. Dr Alecou has been a Visiting Fellow at the Institute of Commonwealth Studies of University of London. He is the author of Communism and Nationalism in Postwar Cyprus (Palgrave Macmillan, 2016) and 1948: The Greek Civil War and Cyprus (Power Publishers, 2012). His current work includes the study of post-war Greece and Cyprus, contemporary political history, and British colonialism.

Haralambos Alexandrou, PhD in Modern and Contemporary Greek History. Dr Alexandrou research interests focus on the political, military, and oral history of the period 1950-1974. He has worked in various research programmes and published articles in scientific magazines and collective volumes. He has published four books: three on the period 1955-1959 and one on the war of 1974 in Cyprus.

Magdalini Antreou, Independent Researcher – Historian, PhD in Political Science and History. Dr Antreou received her PhD from Panteion University. She specialises in the archival research of Cyprus history during the late nineteenth-early twentieth century. Her research interests include Cyprus' history, economy, society and politics. Her latest research is focusing on Cypriot women economic history.

Giorgos Charalambous, Assistant Professor, Department of Politics and Governance, School of Law, University of Nicosia. Dr Charalambous is one of the Book Review Editors of The Cyprus Review. His research interests lie in the domains of comparative European politics and political sociology.

Andreas Eliades, PhD in Modern and Contemporary History. Dr Eliades' PhD focused on the British defence and foreign policy in the Eastern Mediterranean and the Middle East. He studied Political Sciences (University of Cyprus) and International Relations (King's College London). Since 2006, he has been a member of the Diplomatic Service of the Republic of Cyprus. He currently serves as the diplomatic advisor to the Minister of Defence.

Epaminondas Epaminonda, Assistant Professor, Associate Head, Department of Management and MIS, School of Business, University of Nicosia. Dr Epaminonda holds a Bachelor's and Master's degree from the University of Cambridge, an MBA from Imperial College, and a PhD from Manchester Business School. His research interests focus on cross-cultural management, institutional change and comparative business systems.

Dimitrios Gounopoulos, Professor in Accounting and Finance, School of Management, University of Bath. Prof. Gounopoulos specialises in initial public offerings (IPOs) and he is known for his continuous research involvement in this field. Over the last three years he has been involved into research on climate change. He has published his work in international. He is an occasional columnist in Columbia University, School of Law prestigious CLS Blue Sky Blog on issues relating regulations intervention and the FinReg Blog of Duke University. He is also an independent IPOs consultant and collaborator of the Amsterdam Stock Exchange.

Christina Hajisoteriou, Associate Professor of Intercultural Education, School of Education, University of Nicosia in Cyprus. Dr Hadjisoteriou received her PhD in Education concentrating in the field of Intercultural Education also from the University of Cambridge. In 2012, she completed her post-doctoral research focusing on 'The Europeanisation of Intercultural Education: Politics, Policy-Making and Challenges – The Case of Cyprus'. She pursues and maintains an interdisciplinary active research agenda in the field of Intercultural Education.

Michal Hrnčiar, Major, PhD, Military Tactics and Operational Art Department, Armed Forces Academy of General M. R. Štefánik, Liptovský Mikuláš, Slovakia. Maj. Hrnčiar received his PhD in national and international security from the Armed Forces Academy of General M. R. Štefánik. He has been deployed twice to UNFICYP. His research interests include Cyprus' history, society, and UNFICYP's presence and activities in the island.

Michalis Kontos, Assistant Professor, Department of Politics and Governance, School of Law, University of Nicosia. Dr Kontos holds a Bachelor's degree in Political Science from National and Kapodestrian University of Athens, a Master's degree in International Relations and Strategic Studies from Panteion University, and a PhD in International Relations from the same University. His research interests revolve around international relations and strategic studies, with special focus on great power politics. He is a member of the Coordinating Committee of the Black Sea and Eastern Mediterranean Academic Network (BSEMAN).

Ivan Majchút, Associate Professor, Security and Defence Department, Armed Forces Academy of General M. R. Štefánik, Liptovský Mikuláš, Slovakia. Dr Majchút completed his PhD in the deployment of land forces at the Military Academy in Liptovský Mikuláš. As of 2019, he has been appointed as an Associate Professor of National and International Security. His research interests focus on international crises management with an emphasis on conflict resolution, and the activities of the United Nations and UNFICYP in Cyprus.

William Mallinson, Professor of Political Ideas and Institutions, Università degli Studi Guglielmo Marconi, Italy. Prof. Mallinson is a former British diplomat and historian of post-war diplomacy. He is the author of several books, including Kissinger and the Invasion of Cyprus (Cambridge Scholars Publishing, 2016; paperback edition 2017 and Εστία, 2021 [in Greek]) and Guicciardini, Geopolitics and Geohistory: Understanding Inter-State Relations (Palgrave Macmillan/Springer Nature, 2021).

Stelios Perrakis, Professor of International Law, Dean of the School of Law, University Neapolis Pafos. Prof. Perrakis is the President of the Board of Directors of the Hellenic Society of International Law and International Relations. He is also the founder and former Director of the European Centre of Research and Training on Human Rights and Humanitarian Action of Panteion University and former holder of the UNESCO Chair on 'Democracy, Human rights and Peace'. He has served as Ambassador and Permanent Representative of Greece to the Council of Europe. Between 1996-2000 he was Secretary General of European Affairs of Hellenic Ministry of Foreign Affairs.

Petros Petrikkos, PhD candidate in International Relations and European Studies, Department of Politics and Governance, School of Law, University of Nicosia. Mr Petrikkos is a CSDP Doctoral Fellow at the European Security and Defence College, a Consultative Member of the Editorial Board of Studies in Ethnicity and Nationalism (SEN). He is also a Research Associate at the Diplomatic Academy of the University of Nicosia.

Ioannis Rossidis, Adjunct Faculty, School of Law, University of Nicosia. Dr Rossidis holds a PhD in Public Management. He is an administrative scientist who, over the last decade, has taught in undergraduate and postgraduate programs in various Greek and Cypriot Universities. He has also worked as a financial director in HQAA. Moreover, he has served as an executive in Ministry of Finance, in Piraeus Bank, and in ATE Bank. He has authored numerous publications on public management, administrative science, and e-governance.

Nikolaos Stelgias, Independent Researcher – Historian, PhD in Political Science and History. Dr Stelgias specialises in Turkish and Turkish Cypriot history of the 20th century. He received his PhD from Panteion University. His research interests refer to the study of the history, society, politics, economy and international relations of Greece, Cyprus, Turkey and the wider Eastern Mediterranean region. His latest book entitled The Ailing Turkish Republic was published by Cambridge Scholars Publications.

Andreas Theophanous, Professor, Head of Department, Politics and Governance, School of Law, University of Nicosia. Prof. Theophanous received his PhD degree in Economics from the Pennsylvania State University in the USA in 1988. He served as Economic Advisor to the President of the Republic of Cyprus from September 1990 to February 1993. He is Professor of Economics and Public Policy, President of the Cyprus Center for European and International Affairs and Head of the Department of Politics and Governance of the University of Nicosia. He visited several European, American and other universities and think tanks as a Visiting Professor, Senior Fellow and/or Guest Speaker (ELIAMEP, LSE, Brookings, Woodrow Wilson International Center of Scholars, among others). He is the author of several books and many articles as well as policy papers. These focus on the Cyprus problem (including its economic aspects), Cyprus-EU relations, EU Turkish relations, Eastern Mediterranean Affairs, issues of governance in bi-ethnic and multi-ethnic societies, European integration, political economy and the Euro-debt crisis.