

CONTRIBUTORS

Charalambous Giorgos, Assistant Professor of Political Science, School of Law, University of Nicosia. Dr Charalambous works in the field of comparative European politics and political sociology and particularly specialising in party politics, political ideologies, mobilisation, political behaviour, the domestic politics of European integration and southern Europe. He is co-coordinator of the BA in European Studies and International Relations. He is the assistant editor of The Cyprus Review and co-coordinator of the Communism Specialist Group of the Political Studies Association (PSA), as well as member of the Research Advisory Group for the Leventis Foundation Research and Innovation Programme on Cyprus, at the Hellenic Observatory, LSE.

Christias Athanasios, MJur candidate, University of Oxford, PhD candidate, University of Athens. He is an attorney-at-law, member of the Athens Bar Association. His research interests include civil law, competition law and private international law. He has published on the enforcement of foreign judgments awarding punitive damages and liability of payment service providers.

Christou Odysseas, Assistant Professor in Government, International Law and International Relations in the Department of Law at the University of Nicosia. He has previously taught at the University of Texas at Austin, the Texas Lutheran University, and the University of Cyprus. From 2014 to 2018, he served on the Cyprus Energy Strategy Council appointed by the President of the Republic of Cyprus and tasked with the development of a comprehensive strategic plan for the country's energy policy. His main areas of teaching and research interest are energy, environmental, and climate law and policy at the international, EU, and national levels.

Dimarellis Konstantinos, Assistant Professor, School of Law, University of Nicosia. Dr Dimarellis holds a PhD degree in Labour Law from the Aristotle University of Thessaloniki. He has also given lectures as a guest Lecturer at the Universities of Stirling (Scotland), Limerick (Ireland), and Verona (Italy). He has been practising Law since 2008, as a member of the Bar Association of Thessaloniki. He is the author of the monographs Fundamental Principles of Disciplinary Law and Piercing of Corporate Veil Especially in Labour Law and has published 15 articles in law journals.

Epaminonda Epaminondas, Assistant Professor, Associate Head, Department of Management and MIS, School of Business, University of Nicosia. Dr Epaminonda holds a Bachelor's and Master's degree from the University of Cambridge, an MBA from Imperial College, and a PhD from Manchester Business School. His research interests focus on cross-cultural management, institutional change and comparative business systems.

Evriviades Marios L., Professor of International Relations and History, Neapolis University Pafos. Prof. Evriviades is also Senior Fellow and Director of Resources at ERPIC-European Rim and Investment Council, Larnaca. He was educated in the United States. He received his PhD from the Fletcher School of Law and Diplomacy, Tufts University. In Cyprus (1989-2003), he served in the Office for the Study of the Cyprus Problem, as advisor and speechwriter of the President of the Republic, and as Director of the Department of Turkish Studies of the Press and Information Office. In Greece, he served as advisor to the late Deputy Minister of Foreign Affairs Yannis Kranidiotis.

Fillis Constantinos, American College of Greece, Director of the Institute of Global Affairs. Dr Fillis is the President of the Foundation for Thracian Art and Tradition and member of the Advisory Committee of the Institute of International Relations, Panteion University. His most recent books and monographs include Assertive Patriotism, Greece in its Neighbourhood, A Closer Look at Russia and its Influence in the World, Turkey, Islam, Erdogan, and Refugees, Europe, Insecurity.

Hadjitheodoulou-Loizidou Pavlina, PhD, Head of the In-service Teacher Training Department, Cyprus Pedagogical Institute. Dr Hadjitheodoulou-Loizidou has been working as a teacher trainer in Intercultural Education at the Institute since 2000. She got her M.A. in Education and Society (1989-1990) at the University of Reading and her PhD in Pedagogics at the University of Ioannina (1996). She has worked at ASPAITE Pedagogy School in Athens (1996-2000), and as a tutor at the Greek Open University (1998-2009).

Hindle Jessica, BA Oriental Studies, University of Oxford. She is a final year undergraduate student studying Japanese at Hertford College, Oxford. She researched and completed a dissertation on 'Japanese Law and Development' during her year abroad at Kobe University, Japan.

Kastanas Ioannis, Adjunct Faculty, School of Law, University of Nicosia. Dr Kastanas graduated from the Law School of the University of Athens. He holds an LL.M. and a PhD from the same institution. He also holds an M2 Droit Public Approfondi from the University Paris 2 Panthéon Assas. His latest publication, which is based on his post-doctoral study, is entitled To Έκκλητον ενόπιον του Οικουμενικού Πατριάρχου στην Εκκλησία της Κύπρου.

Kourtis Dimitrios A., PhD, School of Law, Aristotle University of Thessaloniki. Dimitrios A. Kourtis holds a PhD from the Aristotle University of Thessaloniki. His doctoral research focused on the collective right to exist and the crime of genocide in international law and received an excellence scholarship from the Hellenic Foundation for Research and Innovation. He has served as a national expert on international criminal law to the Interparty Parliamentary Committee on War Reparations (Hellenic Parliament). He is currently an Adjunct Lecturer in international and international criminal law at the School of Law of the University of Nicosia and a Research Associate at the said School. He also serves as the Publications Editor of The Cyprus Review.

Koutselini Mary, Professor emerita, the University of Cyprus. Prof. emerita Koutselini is the Chair-holder of the UNESCO Chair in Gender Equality and Women's Empowerment. She is also the President of the Cyprus Agency of Quality Assurance and Accreditation in Higher Education (CYQAA). Her areas of specialisation and research interests focus on education, curriculum and instruction, teachers' professional development, and gender studies.

Kyriakides Nicolas, Adjunct Faculty, School of Law, University of Nicosia. Dr Kyriakides is a lawyer, academic and lobbyist. He is a graduate of the National and Kapodistrian University of Athens, holds postgraduate degrees from UCL and NYU and a PhD (DPhil) from the University of Oxford. He has also been a visiting researcher at Harvard University. He teaches at the University of Nicosia and has contributed to a number of high-level innovative legal research initiatives and papers in the course of both his commercial practice and academic life, such as the Procedural Law Unit at the University of Nicosia. He is also a founding member of the non-profit organisation Oxygono and its projects, such as the Cyprus Forum and Nomoplatform.

Mallinson William, Professor of Political Ideas and Institutions, Università degli Studi Guglielmo Marconi, Italy. Prof. Mallinson is a former British diplomat and historian of post-war diplomacy. He is the author of several books, including Kissinger and the Invasion of Cyprus (Cambridge Scholars Publishing, 2016; paperback edition 2017 and Εστία, 2021 [in Greek]) and Guicciardini, Geopolitics and Geohistory: Understanding Inter-State Relations (Palgrave Macmillan/Springer Nature, 2021).

Manthos Apostolos F., PhD in Law, School of Law, National and Kapodistrian University of Athens. Dr Manthos is an Adjunct Faculty at the School of Law of the University of Nicosia, the Hellenic Open University, and the University of West Attica. He is also a practicing attorney. He teaches Commercial Law, Civil Law, Competition Law, Intellectual Property Law, Consumer Law and Civil Service Law at the graduate and post-graduate level.

Nikolaou Fotios, Assistant Professor, School of Law, University of Nicosia. Dr Nikolaou teaches General Principles of Civil Law, Contract Law, Property Law and Consumer Law. He graduated from the National and Kapodistrian University of Athens School of Law. He received his LL.M. degree from the Freie Universität Berlin - Department of Law and obtained his PhD in Civil Law from the National and Kapodistrian University of Athens School of Law. He is the author of the book Acquisition of Ownership of a Movable by a Good Faith Transferee (in Greek) (Athens: Nomiki Vivliothiki Law Publications, 2014).

Panayiotou Andreas, Associate Professor, School of Arts, Communication, and Cultural Studies, Frederick University. Dr Panayiotou holds a BA from Brandeis University. He received his PhD from the University of California Santa Cruz. He has taught in several departments at Frederick University since the 1990s by focusing on social scientific and cultural dimensions in various fields. His research work has been an effort to link forms of knowledge in different fields by relating them to different levels of analysis and modes of historical and cultural paradigms. He has written and done research on issues related to various forms of social-historical conflicts in the context of the world system, identity formation, the social-psychological impact of mass communication, social movements in historical development, and semiotic and discourse analysis in terms of cultural-political conflicts over hegemony.

Papanastasiou Elena C., Dean of the School of Education, Professor, University of Nicosia. Prof. Papanastasiou received her PhD in Measurement and Quantitative Methods from Michigan State University. She also holds an Honors BSc in Elementary and Kindergarten Education from The Pennsylvania State University. Since obtaining her PhD, she has also held academic positions at the University of Kansas and the University of Cyprus. Her research interests lie in the fields of Assessment, Process Data, and Research Methodology. Prof. Papanastasiou serves as the General Assembly representative of Cyprus in the International Association for the Evaluation of Educational Achievement (IEA), while in 2014 she was elected in the Standing Committee of the IEA. In 2018 she was awarded the status of Fellow of the Association for Educational Assessment-Europe in which she also serves as a Council Member.

Petranyi Andrea, PhD, School of Law, University of Nicosia. Dr Petranyi received her PhD in International Relations and European Studies from the Department of Politics and Governance, School of Law, University of Nicosia. Her dissertation under the supervision of Prof. A. Theophanous focused on ‘modalities’ of ethnic cleansing. She received her master’s degree from the University of Chicago.

Plevri Anna, Assistant Professor, School of Law, University of Nicosia. Dr Plevri holds an LLB, an LLM (Hons) and a PhD (Hons) from the School of Law of the Aristotle University of Thessaloniki. In addition, she holds an LLM on International Law from the Department of Law of University of Thrace. She is an accredited Mediator (Civil, Commercial, Family, Workplace, Financial Disputes and ODR), a certified Mediator’s Trainer and an Arbitrator (MCI Arb, ICC Hellas). She is a licensed Supreme Court Attorney at Law, member of the Bar Association of Thessaloniki, Greece and member of Cyprus Bar Association.

Polyzoidou Vagia, Assistant Professor in Criminal Law and Criminal Procedure, School of Law, University of Nicosia. Dr Polyzoidou also participates as a lecturer in the joint Master ‘Criminal Law and Addictions, which is provided by AUTH and the University of Nicosia as well as in MA Criminology that belongs to School of Humanities of the said University. She is also the coordinator of LLB programme of the School of Law of the University of Nicosia. Her thesis (The Criminalization of Child Pornography) for which she was awarded with a scholarship from the European Programme Heraclitus II was published by Nomiki Vivliothiki in 2016.

Roussos Konstantinos, Research Assistant, School of Law, University of Nicosia. Dr Roussos holds a PhD in Archaeology from Leiden University. He has participated in a number of field and research projects in Greece, Turkey, and Cyprus. For many years, he is involved as a Researcher in pioneering research programs.

Sarris Marios, Assistant Professor in Social Anthropology, University of Nicosia. Dr Sarris holds a Bachelor’s degree in Economics, a Master’s degree in Social Anthropology and a PhD in Social Anthropology, all from the LSE. Dr Sarris carried out two years of anthropological fieldwork on Mount Athos for the purposes of his PhD. Dr Sarris has published on the internal politics of the Cypriot Church Synod and he is currently working on militant masculinities within the Greek Orthodox Church.

Stratilatis Costas, Associate Professor, School of Law, University of Nicosia. Dr Stratilatis holds a PhD from the Law School of the Aristotle University of Thessaloniki, where he has taught Philosophy and Methodology of Law. His research interests, and his teaching, lie in the fields of constitutional theory and law, human rights law (especially freedom of expression), political theory and jurisprudence. He has been participating in various research projects, and he is the author of several books and articles on various topics in the aforementioned fields.

Symeou Ekaterini, PhD, University of Cyprus. Dr Symeou holds a PhD on Gender Studies. She received her BA in Byzantine and Modern Greek Literature from the University of Cyprus and her MPhil from the University of Birmingham.

Varnava Marilena, PhD, Institute of Commonwealth Studies, University of London. Dr Varnava had studied law in the National and Kapodistrian University of Athens, holds an MA in Politics and Contemporary History from the University of Nottingham, and a PhD in History from the Institute of Commonwealth Studies, of the University of London. Her monograph Cyprus Before 1974: The Prelude to Crisis (I.B Tauris), has been awarded in 2020 with the Junior Researcher Award in History and Political Sciences (The Cyprus Review Annual Book Awards).

Xepapadakou Avra, PhD, School of Humanities and Social Sciences, University of Nicosia, Coordinator of the MA Programme 'Greek Civilization'. Dr Xepapadakou is a researcher of performing arts. She has worked as a faculty member at the University of Crete (2009-2016), and as an affiliated lecturer at several other academic institutions. She is the author of the books: Pavlos Carrer (Athens: Fagotto Books, 2013) on the Zakynthian opera composer, and Interspersed with Musical Entertainment: Music in Greek Salons of the Nineteenth Century (Athens: Hellenic Music Centre, 2017), co-authored with Alexandros Charkiolakis. She has widely published and has given numerous lectures on topics related to her research interests.