

CONTRIBUTORS

Alecou, Alexis, Department of Labour, Ministry of Labour, Republic of Cyprus. Alexis Alecou holds a PhD in Political Science and History and has been a Visiting Fellow at the Institute of Commonwealth Studies of the University of London. He is the author of the books History of the Communist Party of Cyprus (Topos, Athens, 2023), Communism and Nationalism in Postwar Cyprus (Palgrave Macmillan 2016) and 1948: The Greek Civil War and Cyprus (Power Publishers 2012). Current work includes the study of post-war Greece and Cyprus, contemporary political history, and British colonialism.

Athanasiou-Taki, Marina, PhD in Theatre Studies, Open University of Cyprus. Marina Athanasiou-Taki has PhD in Theatre Studies of the Open University of Cyprus. Her research interests focus on professional and amateur Cypriot theatre and contemporary directing approaches. She is also a member of the Cyprus Playwrights Association, of the Cyprus Centre of the International Theatre Institute, co-founder and director of the theatrical stage Paremvasis.

Balafouta, Virginia, Lawyer, Teaching and Laboratory Staff, National and Kapodistrian University of Athens. Virginia Balafouta holds a Degree in Law (AUTH), a PhD Degree in 'International Law and Regional Studies' (NKUA), a two-year Master of Science in 'International Law and Diplomatic Studies' (Panteion University), a two-year Master of Science in 'History and Philosophy of Science and Technology' (NKUA), a Post-graduate Certificate of Environmental Courses (AUTH), a two-year Diploma in Journalism. She works as Teaching Staff at NKUA. She is the author of six books/monographs and of 32 scientific studies/papers.

Charalambides, Emilios, Assistant Professor, School of Arts, Communication and Cultural Studies, Frederick University. Dr. Emilios Charalambides is Assistant Professor at the Programme of Journalism at the School of Arts, Communication and Cultural Studies of the Frederick University. He has studied Political Science. His field of specialisation is the meeting point of Culture and Politics. He teaches subjects that derive from the disciplines of Political Science, Cultural Analysis and Humanities. He has also produced, translated and directed theatre plays.

Chatzis, Andronikos, School of Humanities and Social Sciences, University of Nicosia. Andronikos Chatzis has a B.Sc. in Sociology from the University of Crete-Rethymno (2016). In 2020, he received his master degree in Criminology in the University of Nicosia and currently is M.Sc. student in Forensic Psychiatry at the National and Kapodistrian University of Athens. His research interests include hate crime issues, juvenile delinquency, juvenile sex offender issues and children investigative interviewing issues.

Christodoulou Foivi, PhD Candidate, Department of History, Politics and International Studies, School of Social Sciences, Arts and Humanities, Neapolis University. Foivi Christodoulou is a PhD candidate in Modern and Contemporary History at the Department of History, Politics and International Studies of the School of Social Sciences, Arts and Humanities of Neapolis University. She holds a Bachelor's degree (BA) in Studies in Greek Culture with a specialisation in History, Archaeology and Art. In addition, she obtained a Master's degree (MA) in History with a specialisation in Modern and Contemporary History. Her research interests focus on the Modern History of Cyprus and, in particular, on personalities whose actions greatly influenced the political, economic and social life of the island during the British Rule.

Economou, Anastasia, School of Humanities and Social Sciences, University of Nicosia. Anastasia Economou holds an Msc in Criminology and MA in Contemporary European Studies. She is currently working at the International Protection Administrative Court in Cyprus as a Researcher, assisting the judges through Country of Origin Information (COI) research in recourse cases. She has extensive experience in both nationally and EU funded research programs as a researcher and as a project manager; she is currently involved as a researcher in a Justice funded project entitled "Child Friendly Justice in the Greek and Cypriot Courts – CHILD Front". Her research interests include juvenile sex offenders, juvenile delinquency, and child friendly legal and judicial proceedings.

Emilianides, Achilles C., Professor of Law, Dean of the School of Law, University of Nicosia. Professor Emilianides is the Dean of the School of Law at the University of Nicosia, as well as a practising advocate. He is the Editor in Chief of the 'Cyprus and European Law Review' and the Chair of the Royal Commonwealth Society Cyprus Branch. Major recent publications include: An Introduction to the Bibliography of Cypriot Law (2017), Labour Law in Cyprus (2016), The Republic of Cyprus and the Doctrine of Necessity (2016), Elements of Greek and Cypriot Law on Religion (2016), Cypriot Succession Law (2015), Media Law in Cyprus (2015), Private International Law in Cyprus (2015), Law and Religion in Cyprus (2014), Annotated Legal Documents on Islam in Cyprus (2014), Constitutional Law in Cyprus (2013), Family and Succession Law (2012).

Evaghorou, Evaghoras L., Assistant Professor, Department of International and European Studies, School of Economics, Business and International Studies, University of Piraeus. Dr. Evaghoras L. Evaghorou comes from Famagusta District, Cyprus. He grew up in Larnaca where he graduated from High School. Following he served in the military as Reservist Second Lieutenant (1994-96). He received a degree in Economics from the Aristotle University of Thessaloniki (2000). He went on to receive an MA degree in Finance and Investment from the Business School of Nottingham University (2002). He then received a Ph.D. in International Relations and International Political Economy from the University of Macedonia (2005). He was Lecturer at the Department of International and European Studies at the University of Piraeus from 2009 till 2014. He has also taught as Visiting Lecturer at the University of Piraeus (2007-08) and the University of Macedonia (2006). His academic and research interests focus on the theory of International Relations and International Political Economy, the strategic analysis, the energy issues, the theories of European integration, the Greek-Turkish relations and the Cyprus issue. He is the author of the book “Greek-Turkish relations from 1923 till present: Theory of International Relations and Strategy”, in Greek. He has also published numerous articles in the areas of his academic interests in international and local academic journals and he has made several announcements in academic conferences. In addition, he gave presentations and speeches and has written articles in newspapers relating to his academic background.

Hadjittofi, Petroula, Postdoctoral Researcher, Archaeological Research Unit, University of Cyprus. She received a BA in History and Archaeology (University of Cyprus, 2008), an MA in Modern History and Folk Culture (University of Ioannina, Greece 2011), and a PhD in Folk Culture (University of Cyprus, 2019). She has participated in numerous national and EU research projects and has conducted extensive field work as well as archival and object-based research for the study of Early Modern and Modern material culture, society and economy in Cyprus.

Hajisoteriou, Christina, Associate Professor, Department of Education, School of Education, University of Nicosia. Dr. Christina Hajisoteriou is an Associate Professor in Intercultural Education at the University of Nicosia. She was awarded a first-class honours BA in Primary Education (best graduate of the year) by the National and Kapodistrian University of Athens. She received annual curriculum awards by the Greek Foundation of National Scholarships. In 2006, she received her MPhil (Thesis Grade A) in Educational Research from the University of Cambridge. In 2009, she received her PhD in Education concentrating on Intercultural Education by the University of Cambridge. Her PhD research was funded by the Leventis Foundation via the Cambridge Commonwealth Trust. In 2012, she completed her post-doctoral research on 'The Europeanisation of intercultural education - The case of Cyprus', co-funded by the Republic of Cyprus and the European Regional Development Fund through the Research Promotion Foundation of Cyprus. She has been a co-recipient of more than 2 million euros in funding mainly from the EU. She published 6 books and more than 70 articles and chapters.

Ioannou Alex, Doctoral Researcher, School of History, Law and Social Sciences, Bangor University. Alex's research focuses on historic and current perceptions of landscape and urban change. They are a trained Landscape Architect and specialise in interdisciplinary research that brings together the subjects of history and natural sciences. Alex is co-director of PNEVMA, a landscape research collective and a member of the Cyprus Scientific and Technical Chamber (ETEK). Recent publications include: Ioannou, A., 'Towards a reframing of Eryri: how historic framings of landscape influence perceptions and expectations of a Welsh national park' (2023) Architecture_MPS, Vol.26 (1).

Karas Hadjidemetri, Despina, Adjunct Faculty, University of Nicosia. Despina Hadjidemetri Karas is a practising advocate since 2010, serving as an advocate and head partner in the litigation department in Antonis K. Karas LLC since 2017. She completed her undergraduate studies in law at the Democritus University of Thrace. She went on to pursue advanced studies at the University of Bristol, specialising in Commercial Law. Beyond the courtroom, she is actively engaged in legal teaching, working as an adjunct faculty member in the University of Nicosia.

Konstantinou, Konstantina, Department of Classics and Philosophy, University of Cyprus. Konstantina Konstantinou has a PhD in Modern and Contemporary History. She studied History and Archaeology (University of Cyprus) and Politics and Contemporary History (University of Nottingham). Her research interests focus on Cyprus and Greece history in the 1940s. She has worked in research programs and has published a book which examines the impact the Greek Civil War had on Cyprus.

Koumarianou, Maria, Adjunct Teaching Staff, Department of Foreign Languages, National and Kapodistrian University of Athens. She holds a PhD in French Literature from the University Lyon II, France, and a second PhD in Anthropology of Urban Space from the National Technical University of Athens, Department of Architecture. She also holds a BA in Translation and MSA in French Literature, Anthropology and Theology. Author of many books and articles concerning Translation, Ethnology, History, African Literature, editor and reviewer in many scientific magazines, she has taught in many universities in Greece and abroad.

Kouroupakis, Apostolos G., Culture Editor, Kathimerini Cyprus. Born (1979) in Chania Crete. Doctorate (Ph. D.) holder in Medieval History from the University of Cyprus. Currently Culture Editor Kathimerini of Cyprus newspaper.

Kyriakides, Nicolas, Adjunct Faculty, Department of Law, School of Law, University of Nicosia. Nicolas Kyriakides is a lawyer and academic. He is a graduate of the National and Kapodistrian University of Athens, he holds postgraduate degrees from UCL and NYU and a PhD (DPhil) from the University of Oxford. He has also been a visiting researcher at Harvard University. He teaches Civil Procedure, Contract Law and Banking Law at the University of Nicosia and has contributed to a number of high-level innovative legal research initiatives and papers in the course of both his commercial practice and his academic life, such as the Procedural Law Unit at the University of Nicosia.

Mitas, Stergios, Assistant Professor, Department of Law, School of Law, University of Nicosia. Stergios Mitas is teaching as Assistant Professor in Legal Philosophy at the School of Law of the University of Nicosia. He has authored the monograph Solidarity as a Fundamental Legal Principle (Sakis Karagiorgas Foundation, Athens, 2016), co-edited the volumes The Power and the Law (Hippasus Law Publishing, Nicosia - Athens, 2019) and Law and Literature (Hippasus Law Publishing, Nicosia - Athens, 2020), as well as published several journal articles in the fields of legal philosophy and political philosophy, legal methodology, public law and fundamental rights.

Pappa, Diamantoula, School of Humanities and Social Sciences, University of Nicosia. Diamantoula Pappa is a Criminology graduate and a resident in Clinical Psychology. She has actively participated in subjects that deal with addiction, human trafficking victims and underage criminality. At the same time, her training and education coincide with cognitive based psychotherapies. Her key areas of research interest include personality traits, anxiety, stress and depression. Other topics of interest for research include sociopolitical and cultural matters that arise in the society.

Pastellopoulos, Antonis, Associate Tutor, Department of Sociology, University of Warwick. Antonis Pastellopoulos holds a PhD in Sociology awarded by the University of Warwick. He holds a Bachelor's degree from the University of Glasgow and a Master's degree from the University of Amsterdam. His research interests focus on nationalism and its alternatives, as well as on extra-parliamentary politics in Cyprus. He has published work on Cypriotism and Cypriot anarchism, and has presented papers focusing on nationalism at multiple conferences.

Petasis, Aris, Independent Researcher and Consultant. Dr Aris Petasis is a scholar and international organisational development strategy consultant who has served diverse multinational organisations across various countries, continents and cultures. Formerly a Post-Doctoral Fellow and holder of degrees at bachelor, master's and doctoral level, all funded through American merit-based scholarships. He is a founding member of the International Fund at the Tsyolkovsky Moscow State Aviation University and member of the Board of Governors of the University of Limassol. He has written several books (all on Amazon.com) and articles.

Psychakis, Leonidas, Managing Partner, L. Psychakis, Y. Petrallis & Associates LLC. Leonidas Psychakis is practising law in Cyprus. He specialises in corporate law, trust law, maritime law, finance law, energy law, real estate law, and is involved in corporate and commercial litigation. He was a part-time lecturer at the University of Nicosia, inter alia, on UK Trust & Equity. He is a Managing Partner at L. Psychakis, Y. Petrallis & Associates LLC.

Soukara, Stavroula, Associate Professor, Department of Social Sciences, University of Nicosia. Dr Soukara is Associate Professor of Forensic Psychology and the Associate Head of the Department of Social Sciences at the University of Nicosia. Dr Soukara holds a Bachelor's degree in Psychology from the University of Sussex (UK), a Master's degree in Criminal Justice Studies from the University of Portsmouth (UK) and a PhD in Forensic Psychology from the same University. Her PhD concerned the investigative interviewing of suspects, and her research interests focus mainly on suspect interviewing and the dangers of false confessions. She worked for a number of years at the Hellenic Police Academy and the Hellenic National Security School, where she was involved in investigative interviewing training and was a member of their educational councils. She was a visiting academic to the Cyprus Police Academy and is a member of the Council of Crime Prevention and Civil Protection Centre at the Ministry of Justice and Public Order (CY). She is also a member of the Advisory Council for the UN Protocol on ‘Principles on Effective Interviewing and Information Gathering’ (2021) chaired by Juan Mendez, United Nations’ former Special Rapporteur on Torture.

Theophanous, Andreas, Professor and Head of the Department of Politics and Governance, School of Law, University of Nicosia. He received his PhD degree in Economics from the Pennsylvania State University in the USA in 1988. He served as Economic Advisor to the President of the Republic of Cyprus from September 1990 to February 1993. He is Professor of Economics and Public Policy, President of the Cyprus Center for European and International Affairs and Head of the Department of Politics and Governance of the University of Nicosia. He visited several European, American and other universities and think tanks as a Visiting Professor, Senior Fellow and/or Guest Speaker (ELIAMEP, LSE, Brookings, Woodrow Wilson International Center of Scholars, among others). He is the author of several books and many articles as well as policy papers. These focus on the Cyprus problem (including its economic aspects), Cyprus-EU relations, EU Turkish relations, Eastern Mediterranean Affairs, issues of governance in biethnic and multiethnic societies, European integration, political economy and the Euro-debt crisis.

Trimikliniotis, Nicos, Professor of Sociology, Department of Social Sciences, School of Humanities and Social Sciences, University of Nicosia. He heads the team of experts of Cyprus team for the Fundamental Rights Agency of the EU. He is also a trained Barrister and legal expert who has researched on nationality, citizenship, asylum and immigration law and Labour Law, constitutional, nationality and fundamental rights, free movement of workers, discrimination, state theory and ideology, social class and race/ethnicity and gender, conflict and reconciliation, digitalities, work, precarity. Publications selection: Migration and the Refugee Dissensus in Europe: Borders, Security and Austerity (2020, Routledge); Mobile Commons, Migrant Digitalities and the Right to the City (Palgrave, 2015) and Beyond a Divided Cyprus: A State and Society in Transformation (Palgrave MacMillan, 2012); Η διαλεκτική του έθνους-κράτους και το καθεστώς εξαίρεσης – συνταγματικές και κοινωνιολογικές μελέτες για την ευρωκυπριακή συγκυρία και το εθνικό ζήτημα [The nation-state dialectic and the state of exception - constitutional and sociological and studies on the eurocyprian conjuncture and the national question], Savallas, 2010.

Tsakiris, Theodoros, Associate Professor, Department of Management, School of Business, University of Nicosia. Dr. Theodoros Tsakiris is an Associate Professor of Energy Policy and Geopolitics at the University of Nicosia's School of Business where he coordinates the School's Energy Studies programs. Dr. Tsakiris is a member of the board of directors of the Greek Natural Gas Transmission System Operator, DESFA, and has also served in the board of directors of the state-owned Cyprus Hydrocarbons Company. Dr. Tsakiris is a member of the Committee drafting Greece's National Hydrogen Strategy appointed by the Greek Energy Minister in 2020. Since 2022 he also acts as the coordinator of the Task Force for the Acceleration of Greek Hydrocarbon Activities established by the Greek Ministry of Environment and Energy.

Varnava, Marilena, Director, Biotronics Ltd. Marilena Varnava studied Law in the National and Kapodistrian University of Athens, holds an MA in Politics and Contemporary History from the University of Nottingham and a PhD in History from the Institute of Commonwealth Studies, of the University of London. Her research interests focus on the contemporary political and diplomatic history of Cyprus, the evolution of the Cyprus problem, especially in the 1960s-1970s, and the UN peace-building efforts since then. Her monograph Cyprus Before 1974: The Prelude to Crisis, which was published by I.B Tauris, has been awarded, in 2020, the Junior Researcher Award in History and Political Sciences of the first book awards of the Cyprus Review.

Zachariades, Alexandros, Fellow, Department of International Relations, London School of Economics and Political Science. Dr Zachariades holds a PhD in International Relations from the London School of Economics and is the Head of Research of the 89 Initiative. He is an Associate Editor at the Millennium: Journal Of International Studies for vol. 52, where he had previously been editor for vol. 51. His research lies at the intersection of small state studies, foreign policy analysis and the Middle East.

Zalaf, Alexia, Assistant Professor, School of Humanities and Social Sciences, University of Nicosia. Dr Alexia Zalaf is engaged in teaching and research in the field of forensic psychology and is actively involved in the promotion of domestic violence, child victims of abuse and animal welfare issues throughout Cyprus. Her key areas of interest include domestic violence, individual differences and personality, animal abuse and animal welfare and child victims of crime.